More than 100 of the world's largest retailers will be on hand at the Royal Highland Centre to show off their products. The five-day Highland Show runs from today (Thursday) to 17 September and is being organised by the Highland Council in partnership with leading retailers including John Lewis, Marks & Spencer, Amazon, Tesco, M&S Food and Home, Johnnie Walker and Asos. It will be the first time the Highland Show has been held in its new home at the Royal Highland Centre. The centre - which opened in 2015 - is the largest of its kind in Scotland and attracts nearly 1.7 million visitors every year. Tesco has become the first retailer to announce its plans for the September event with the news it will open its doors to customers from Wednesday. Cllr Rhea Wolfhagen, Highland Council's cabinet member for culture, leisure and tourism, said: "It's going to be huge, with retailers, chefs, producers and foodies all coming together. "The Highland Show is an essential event for us. We know we have a great festival and industry, and now we have this retail powerhouse. It's going to add huge numbers to the event. Retailers and the catering industry are our main employers in the Highlands and we hope this event will give them an opportunity to showcase their products to the largest audience. "The Highland Show has a great reputation and we want to improve its connections with the regions. It's 6d1f23a050
